

January 27, 2009

Staff Resignation Announced for WV Democrats

Charleston, WV – Tom Vogel, Executive Director of the West Virginia Democratic Executive Committee, announced today that he will be leaving the position on March 31 to pursue other opportunities. Vogel stated, “I’ve enjoyed my four years with the Party. It was a great run with many successes, but now it’s time to move on.” Vogel also served as State Director for the Obama for America Campaign in West Virginia.

Democratic Party Chair, Nick Casey stated, “Tom has done an outstanding job: revitalizing the State and County Parties, getting the State Party on solid financial footing, and leading the Democratic Party to victories in 2006 and 2008.” “Whatever Tom decides to do in the future, I’m sure he will continue to produce positive results. We wish Tom all the best.”

Casey will be announcing his pick for Vogel’s replacement in the coming days.